

Process in action

Unipart

Update

Unipart has built a new business model with SAP and IBM. The company needed to radically change its IT infrastructure model to make business growth at low cost and drive higher profitability. Working with IBM, Computer centre and Steria, the company built a new system for its sector-leading end-to-end supply chain service based on mySAP business suite and IBM technologies designed to rapidly scale as new contracts are won.